Conversion. The contract owner certifies that he/she is eligible (tax filing status not married, filing separately) to convert his/her existing RSL traditional or SEP IRA to a Roth IRA; that the contributions to the existing IRA are eligible to be converted; and that he/she understands the tax consequences of the conversion.

Contribution Recharacterization

The contract owner may request that all or part of a contribution, plus any income allocated to that contribution, to his/her Traditional or Roth IRA (the First IRA) be transferred to another IRA (the Second IRA) on or before his/her tax return due date, plus extensions, for the tax year in which the contribution was made. The contract owner may then treat the contribution as having been made to the Second IRA and report it accordingly on their tax return.
